

15. Story of Anjuman

He was from Ayodhya. Grandson of Sakaramannan. He is naturally good-natured. He learned that all sixty thousand Sakars had died of Kapilar Vegli. He regretted that he had disturbed the horse race and went down to Patanar. He saw Kapil. He bowed down and praised. He was pleased with his good manners. Vandakariyam yadu he said. He jumped to tell the news. Kapil explained the story of Akkutira's arrival there and made him take the horse. His horse came and relieved Patanar's anxiety and finished the wedding. Many people came to know from Iv Vanjuman that those who shed sin are as good as saints.

[chuckles]