

SIVA-JNĀNA -BŌDHA, SŪTRA 9

Perceiving the Lord, who cannot be perceived by the gross intellect and senses, but by siva- jnāna, the supreme intelligence conferred, the soul disentangles itself from the fleeting mirage of material attachments and rests blissfully under the cooling shade of siva anubhūdi- joyfull experience of Siva and meditates upon panjākshara- the five syllable mantrā- as ordained.

This ninth Sūtra of Siva-Jnāna -Bōdha is explained in Siva- Jnāna- Siddiyār Songs 292 to 303.
